DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) and the Intellectual Property and High Technology Technical Amendments Act of 2002 do not apply when the reference is a U.S. patent resulting directly or indirectly from an international application filed before November 29, 2000. Therefore, the prior art date of the reference is determined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

2. Claims 1,2,8,10,15,16 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Tell et al (US 20060019666 A1).

As per claim 1, Tell discloses a combined POTS and cellular interface that can switch from one network to the other or use both simultaneously. The device can communicate with POTS and cellular networks and also to cell terminals and POTS phone at the residence (Fig. 1).

As per claim 2, the POTS interface inherently comprises a SLIC and DTMF interface as those are both interfaces designed specifically to implement the POTS network.

Art Unit: 2614

As per claim 8, the system comprises a wired phone input to the device, which inherently comprises a 'remote extender' to allow communications. Any portion of interface may be considered a remote extender.

As per claims 10,15,16, they are rejected as per the claim 1 rejection.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claims 3-7,11-14,17,9 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Tell et al (US 20060019666 A1).

As per claim 3-7,11-14,17, Tell discloses an interface for a residence and contemplates any number of terminals (including cell phones that inherently require modems for the purpose of modulating the carriers waves for wireless transmission) that may be serviced at the residence, but does not specify every possible known protocol or standard that may be used to interconnect the networked devices (such as AT, caller ID, PCM, bluetooth, infrared, USB,RS232,DTMF).

It would have been obvious to implement any number of connections using any number of known protocols for the purpose of implementing the disclosed network. Each protocol inherently requires a respective module or modules be integrated into the system in order to translate one protocol to the next in the disclosed network.

As per claim 9, it would have been obvious to utilize a known support structure for a cellphone for the inherent advantage of supporting the device.
